MARK WILCOX TO RETURN SEPT. 8TH

Largest Early Crop In Years In Lake Region

1500 Acres of Early Beans To Be Planted By September 10

Representative J. Mark Wilcox has informed his office in West Palm Beach that he expects to return home September 8.

The Congressman has left Washington for a short vacation in Blowing Rock, N. C., and plans to reach Jacksonville September 9. He made no mention of the report that he would spend the Miami during Union Lake Week between September 1 and 7, but it is expected that he will probably go there before returning home.

Rep. Wilcox has not returned home since spring when he made a brief business trip to Miami and West Palm Beach.

Maybe it was that car of early beans that Brooks Battman sold on the tract in Belle Glade last September for $1.70 per hamper. Maybe, it's something else. Nevertheless, early plantings this season have caused those of recent years. In fact, growers are of the opinion that more acres have been planted to beans up to this date than ever before in the farming history of Lake Okechobee.

An estimate made last week by newspaper men and growers showed that 1500 acres of beans would be planted by the tenth of this month. Another survey made during the past few days shows that the acreage has been increased to 1500 acres by September 10.

Something that accounts for much of the early planting is the fact that hundreds of acres around Belle Glade and on the south side of the lake have been diked and pumped. Growers in those sections state that they do not need to worry about the water in the spring by heavy rains.

Walter Hoover, Glade's largest operator, was returned from a vacation spent in Virginia. Before the Panoke Rotary club Thursday he spread a note of warning about heavy acreage and one-acre farming. He also told of visiting markets in the north and witnessed the selling of beans at 40 cents and 50 cents per hamper.

In his short but interesting talk Mr. Hoover pointed out the highly profitable nature of a good bean and beans only. Depletion of the soil is an inevitable result of such practices in agriculture, the speaker said. If the Everglades is to remain the outstanding winter vegetable raising section of the country, plans must be made for diversification, Mr. Hoover said.

Test Run Made In Fertilizer Plant

Wedgworth Mixing Plant Being Put Into Operation for Season

It. H. Wedgworth and workmen were busy this week making test runs in the new fertilizer mixing plant recently erected on the Glade. In connection with the fertilizer plant, Mr. Wedgworth has completed erection of the Glades most complete packing and pre-cooling plant. It is an innovation in packing and cooling and has caused much favorable comment among growers and brokers in this section.

In connection with the fertilizer plant, Mr. Wedgworth has completed erection of the Glades most complete packing and pre-cooling plant. It is an innovation in packing and cooling and has caused much favorable comment among growers and brokers in this section.

The building formerly owned by the Glades Truck and Tractor company was purchased by Mr. Wedgworth and has been converted into an up-to-date fertilizer supply house. A fill line of seeds and small farm equipment will be found in the new supply house which has been renovated on the inside and re-arranged to care for the ample supply of merchandise carried in stock. Mr. Free, formerly of Boynton, is the new store manager.

In the packing plant, fertilizer and insecticide plant the Big W brand will be featured by the company. All of the new buildings have been painted a cream color and decorative signs have been placed on each of them.

Cite Light Company In Daytona Mishap

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington says that Jack C. Haggard, a Daytona Beach, Fla., newly-erected light poles probably caused the fatal plane crash at Daytona Beach, the Commerce Department reported.

The light poles had been erected to provide emergency service, while repairs were made to the poles which had been erected earlier in the night by the Florida Power and Light company. Four persons were killed and five injured.

"It does not appear," the department's report said, "that the poles and their construction gave rise to any information of the fact of their erection prior to, during the course of, or at the time of the crash of the plane."

The operators of the aircraft, the airport authorities, or to any other governmental authority connected with the safety of operation of aircraft at the airport.

The crash occurred August 10 at 1:40 a. m., when an Eastern Air Lines ship struck one of the poles which had been erected earlier in the night by the Florida Power and Light company. Four persons were killed and five injured.

Realizing the importance of checking this dread disease in its early stages, the state health department has urged that children in the high school grades be examined as rapidly as possible. The state Board of Health has obtained a truck, an X-ray machine and other necessary equipment for making case records.

Examinations will be made in any county upon request by the local medical society, the director of health in the county has taken advantage of this opportunity already to have its school children examined and many other requests have been filed.

The Board's work is done in cooperation with local physicians. When preliminary tests show positive results, the state health department sends the findings are then sent to the family physician.

Dr. Legie said an examination of the entire body, the entire family of the reactor to trace the source of the infection and to keep the germ from spreading among others.

Ninety-nine percent of adults carry tuberculosis germs in their bodies, but it may remain inactive throughout their lives.

Akrey was captured in a negro house in West Palm Beach near the place where he has been hiding out since the slaying. Reports say that he was lodged in the Dade county jail for safe keeping.

Under the figure allotted by the tag department will be the county number. Every county will have its own figure "1" in addition to the license tag number. By this system the home county of every car can be easily determined.

Another feature of this new plan is that automobile owners will be able to obtain low numbers in advance. Every county will have its own figure in advance, officials said. The tag department has ordered 150,000 tags for 1938 from the tag plant at Raleigh. The total number sold in the state this year, to date, is 475,000. Students Should Have Eyes Tested

Children who will attend school this fall should have eyes, ears, nose and throat, and teeth. Immunization against diphtheria, and smallpox should be provided and any bodily defects remedied during vacation time whenever possible.

"Authorities urge that early summer rather than just before school begins in the fall be the best time for checking on a child's health. A health examination right after school is often in the spring. It is often in the spring that a child longer to recuperate if anything is wrong; but in case the preschool child should be closely examined for defects of ears, eyes, nose, throat, and teeth. Immunization against diphtheria, and smallpox should be provided and any bodily defects remedied during vacation time whenever possible."

Once the hot September days will be slipping by and it will be time to start our boys and girls back to school. The wise parent will make sure that his children have sufficient rest these last weeks before school opens. Don't send them back to the schoolroom fatigued to much studying, and too little sleep and rest. So often these boys and girls must spend the first few weeks of the school year recuperating from an orgy of overindulgence with the result that little is accomplished in their lessons and they regard school as the bogey which caused those weeks of rest and little bodies contending with tiredness.

Polk County Will Save $27,000 In New Text Books In 1937

36,000 Textbooks Will Be Distributed To School Children

A saving of $27,000 in free textbooks will be effected in Polk county under the set-up as planned for the 1937-38 term. The county school depository, from which are distributed the buildings in the county, has been located by C. I. Hollingsworth, superintendent, at the corner of Davidson and Broadway, one block from the courthouse.

Last year the state gave $47,000 for books in Polk county alone, this year it is $20,000. F. J. Morrison, in charge of distribution, said, however, that schools will not be required to purchase any new books. Principals and teachers will be forced to bring out books they have stored away, and some of the old volumes may be required.

About 36,000 texts will be trucked out to the schools in a remodeled bus which formerly operated at Combee. Bus windows were removed and solid panels placed in the sides so that the state-owned volumes would be protected from the elements. Seats were removed and shelves installed by students of the Lakeland vocational school.

We have received only our first shipment from the state, representing about 11 tons of printed matter," Morrison said. "Some seven tons more are slated to be trucked to Bartow within a few weeks."

After schools open, September 9, principals will check to determine what volumes are needed and notify Hollingsworth, who will requisition the state department for them.

Head of New Jersey Training School Uses "Social Competence" Yardstick

Washington, Sept. 2.—The ability of a person to fit into a changing world may be measured by a new yardstick known as "social competence."

It is the newest effort of science to determine the mental and sociological level of human beings. It contemplates the day when the science of eugenics may be applied to breed a superior race, and weed out the incompetent, feeble-minded and other social defects.

Dr. Edgar A. Doll of the Hurler, N. J., Training school originated the yardstick. He declared that when social competence is expressed mathematically as a "social quotient" it is similar to the long familiar "intelligence quotient" and is comparable to it in many ways in measuring the intangible factors of human behavior.

Writing in The Journal of Heredity, Dr. Doll explained that the social quotient is not a measure of the intelligence of a human being, but rather a rating of an individual's fitness for society and parenthood. A feeble-minded person of very low intelligence might be rated fit to live freely and independently instead of being confined to an institution. On the other hand, a highly intelligent person might be found socially incompetent and unfit for society. Social competence under this yardstick is analyzed according to six valuations—self-help, locomotion, communication, occupation, self-direction and socialization. In a baby "self-help" would include grasping objects or sitting up unsupported. In an older child it would mean going about alone or looking after his health. In an adult self-direction would include using money providently, providing for the future, and assisting others.

The social measurement of an individual can be obtained by questioning a friend or relative, Dr. Doll said. "Thus it is possible to analyze the social competence of children yet unborn through their parents."

The new criterion of social acceptability has already been applied, the scientist said, to measure the social competence of three generations, of a feeble-minded family, a borderline or subnormal family, and a family of superior social-economic status.

The social quotients of the various individuals in each family were similar from generation to generation. This indicated to Dr. Doll an inheritance of social competence, and revealed a tendency toward marriage of persons approximately equal in social behavior.

Robert C. Cook, editor of The Journal, declared that this new method of analysis, developed first in studies of feeble-minded persons, "may in the end prove more complicated, challenging, and more fruitful of fundamental knowledge than any simplifications it may bring to the diagnosis of feeble-mindedness."
